

Ace archer will take her bow with Ralph Lauren

Who says we're not good looking? Joy Fahrenkrog is the Denver kid of well-known Kentwood City real estate agent Judy Fahrenkrog — and Ralph Lauren's latest model. And that puts her in very comely company.

Joy is an ace archer and was chosen by Lauren to star in a series of print ads, along with three other elite jocks, to model his Olympic opening and closing ceremony uniforms. She missed the Olympics cut this past weekend, but she made Lauren's. The ads will start appearing this month in many mags — including the cover of the tony Hamptons Magazine. Mom says Joy is “long, blonde and blue-eyed.” You can see for yourself at joyfahrenkrog.com.

CU-Boulder student Leonard Sun was just named PETA's Cutest Vegetarian Alive. From more than 1,700 male nominees and 55,000 votes, Sun is the hottest vegan in the meat market.

In a release, Sun said, “Meat is gross and unhealthy, and it's not fair to eat animals (just) because we can.”

BILL HUSTED
Denver Post
Columnist

Hot I Denver I've been on stage twice in Denver. Once as a supernumerary in Opera Colorado's “Die Fledermaus.” I think I flubbed the line announcing the arrival of someone.

And I played a “John” at the Barth Hotel in John Ashton's legendary 1991 production of “The Hot I Baltimore.” The play, about a rundown hotel and its off-the-wall residents, was presented in the lobby of the Barth Hotel, the LoDo residence hall that's part of Denver Senior Options. People wandered in and out of the lobby as the play went on — it was great — and I was one of many Denverites who had a one-night walk-on role.

Before I could utter my line, actor Pam Clifton had me pushed through a doorway.

But give up show business? Never!

I'm down to do a walk-on in the upcoming revival of “Hot I,” again at the Barth Hotel, July 18 through Aug. 23.

Ashton can't produce this time, but he'll do a walk-on. And so will Ed Sardella. And Susan Kiely. And a lot of other Denver bold names. Stay tuned — and stay at the Hot I!

Send in the clown Molly Kleeman is perhaps better known as SKIDDLES the Clown. She's been slapping on the make-up and the red nose in Denver since 1996 — and she's recently back from the World Clown Association Convention in Lake Buena Vista, Fla.

She's a winner clown, coming home with three medals: A Bronze in Advanced Balloons, Silver in Paradeability and the Gold in Makeup and Wardrobe. Scary.

Winos Now these are my kinds of wine and food tastings. Blind and naked.

That's how Rioja is billing its May 19 wine event. The bottles will be naked, no labels, so the tasting will be blind as you pair up four courses with grapes from around the world.

Meanwhile, Goose Sorensen at Solera on Monday night served up a blind Tazo tea-infused tasting dinner — where diners were blindfolded.

No word yet on a naked dinner.

City spirit Check out William Matthews' new watercolors, American Pictorials, at his gallery at 1617 Wazee St. ... Noel and Tammy Cunningham will be honored at the May 22 Denver Sister Cities International Dinner. ... Salman Rushdie skedded for the Aspen Lit Festival June 22-26. ... May 30 is Pierre Wolfe Day at Assignments. ... Elway's Summer Music Series starts June 11 with the Railbenders and ends Aug. 13 with a return engagement. ... Tambien (with Holly Kylberg hosting) beat Mezcal at Thursday's Dining Out for Life Celebrity Style Tip-off. ... Sez who: “For travel to be delightful, one must have a good place to leave and return to.” Frederick B. Wilcox

Bill Husted's column appears Sunday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. Husted also appears Tuesdays and Fridays on “Good Day Colorado” on Fox 31. You can reach him at 303-954-1486 or at bhusted@denverpost.com. Take a peek at Husted's next column at blogs.denverpost.com/husted.

When it comes to makeup and wardrobe, SKIDDLES is pure gold.

